- Red Chilli Sowing Delayed in Andhra Pradesh and Telangana: Red chilli sowing in Andhra Pradesh and Telangana has been delayed by nearly a month due to inadequate and uneven rainfall. The delay is expected to push back harvesting and fresh-crop arrivals, potentially extending the period of tight market supplies. Weather-related crop stress could also affect yields if moisture conditions remain unfavourable. With carry-over stocks limited and export demand expected to strengthen, red chilli prices may remain firm in the coming months.
