Cumin Weekly Update

26 October 2026

Market Update

- Cumin Prices showed mixed trend at Unjha market while decline in NCDEX Nov Futures and higher Arrivals till 24th Oct: Cumin prices at the Unjha market showed mixed trend during the week ending 23rd Oct compared with 16th Oct. The FAQ and Machine Cleaned variety quoted at 2,50,000, and 2,73,000 INR/tonne, FAQ variety up by 5,000 and Machine Cleaned variety down by 2,000 INR. On the National Commodity and Derivatives Exchange, cumin contracts for Nov delivery down by Rs 85, or 0.32 per cent, to Rs 26,370 per quintal with an open interest of 3,219 lots. In last week (till 24th Oct), cumulative arrivals during the current market year (April to March) reached 3,79,911 tonnes, representing a 23.6% incline compared to the same period last year. Meanwhile, the total stocks at Unjha market are currently reported at 4,079 tonnes, but Unencumbered Valid Stock reported at 3,046 tonnes.
- Market Outlook Turns Bearish as Prices Trade Below the Trend Reversal Point: The market closed at ₹261,418 per tonne, remaining unchanged week-on-week. Prices are trading below the trend reversal point of ₹263,640 per tonne, indicating a bearish near-term outlook. Immediate resistance is placed at ₹267,057 per tonne, followed by ₹272,695 per tonne. On the downside, immediate support is seen at ₹258,002 per tonne, followed by stronger support at ₹254,585 per tonne. The near-term outlook remains cautious as long as prices stay below the trend reversal point of ₹263,640 per tonne, while a sustained move above this level could improve market sentiment.
- Cumin Prices Gain on Tight Supplies and Export Demand Prospects, While Global Competition Caps Upside: Cumin prices gained, supported by tightening nearby supplies, declining arrivals and expectations of improved export demand during the lean season. Farmers are holding stocks in anticipation of better prices, while limited availability of premium-quality, export-grade cumin is providing additional support as arrivals at Unjha and major Rajasthan markets decline. However, further gains remain capped by farmer selling ahead of the upcoming cropping season, rising NCDEX warehouse stocks and cautious procurement by spice processors. Geopolitical tensions in the Middle East continue to disrupt logistics and weigh on traditional export demand, while renewed interest from European and North American buyers offers selective support. Meanwhile, expectations of higher production in Turkey and Syria are pressuring Indian export premiums and limiting the upside.
- Cumin Acreage May Decline due to Soil-Moisture Concerns: Cumin acreage is expected to decline due to unfavourable weather conditions and concerns over soil moisture. Uncertainty about crop development may discourage farmers from expanding cultivation, while the potential impact of dry conditions could affect production prospects. Lower carry-over stocks and expectations of stronger demand may provide additional support to prices. The final acreage and production outlook will depend on weather conditions during the sowing period and subsequent crop development.
- Indian Cumin Prices Strengthen due to Festive Demand and Tight Spot Availability: Indian cumin prices are firming due to increased festive-season demand and limited spot availability. Selling pressure in domestic mandis has eased, supporting a modest recovery after subdued trading earlier in October. Cautious farmer selling is further supporting domestic prices. In the export market, Indian FOB quotations have edged higher over the past two weeks, while Egyptian and Syrian offers have also strengthened slightly, indicating a broadly supportive global market trend.
