- On Wednesday, 21st October 2026, CBOT soybean futures for November 2026 delivery were quoted at 1,246.2 cents per bushel, down 1.2 cents, indicating weaker soybean prices. Soybean meal futures for December 2026 delivery declined by USD 0.2 to USD 348.1 per short tonne, while soybean oil futures for December 2026 delivery fell by 0.76 cents to 65.9 cents per pound.
- US Harvest Progress Faces Limited Rain Risk Over the Weekend: The NOAA 7-day forecast indicates generally dry conditions across the US, although a weather system is expected to bring precipitation to parts of New Mexico, Colorado, the Texas Panhandle, western Kansas and Nebraska over the weekend. Producers have been working to restore harvest operations to a normal pace following earlier delays.
- China's US Soybean Purchases Reach an Estimated 15.0 MMT for MY 2026/27: China's cumulative purchases of US soybeans for the 2026/27 marketing year have reached an estimated 15.0 MMT, following bookings of 10–13 cargoes in recent days. The purchases account for around 60% of the 25.0 MMT target set for the marketing year under a broader trade arrangement. Recent shipments are scheduled between December and March, with weekly buying continuing despite a pause during China's early-October holiday. Renewed Chinese demand is supporting US soybean exports, while Brazil and Argentina face increased competition for market share ahead of Brazil's 2027 harvest. US soybean futures have posted only modest responses, as ample domestic supplies continue to limit price gains.
- China to Auction 512,000 Tonnes of Imported Soybeans on October 27: China will auction 512,000 tonnes of imported soybeans from the 2023 and 2024 crop years on October 27, 2026, at 13:30 local time. The stocks are allocated across Liaoning, Shandong, Guangdong, Guangxi, Jiangxi, Hubei, Hunan and Sichuan. The auction will be conducted through open online bidding, with participation restricted to eligible domestic soybean crushing and feed-processing enterprises authorised to handle imported genetically modified soybeans. The final sale quantity will depend on the transaction list published on the auction date.
