Key Updates

- India; IMD Forecasts Early Monsoon Arrival In Kerala: The India Meteorological Department (IMD) has forecast the arrival of the southwest monsoon in Kerala around 26 May 2026 (±4 days). Weather conditions are currently favorable for further monsoon advancement over parts of the south Bay of Bengal, Andaman Sea and Andaman & Nicobar Islands during the next 24 hours. The development is considered positive for kharif pulse crops, especially tur and urad, as timely monsoon onset may support early sowing activities and improve soil moisture conditions. However, IMD also warned that heatwave to severe heatwave conditions may continue over northwest and central India this week, while heavy rainfall is likely in parts of northeast and south India during the next 3-4 days.
- Australia; March Chickpea Exports Fall Sharply Amid Weak India Demand & Gulf Tensions: Australia exported 27,120 tonnes of chickpeas in March 2026, down sharply from 277,650 tonnes in February due to the absence of major shipments to India. Exports were also significantly lower compared to 71,779 tonnes shipped in March 2025. Trade activity slowed further amid tensions in the Gulf region and disruption risks in the Strait of Hormuz, which may impact chickpea exports to the UAE and other Middle East destinations. During October 2025–March 2026, India remained Australia's largest chickpea buyer with imports of 640,180 tonnes, followed by Bangladesh at 211,903 tonnes and UAE at 40,172 tonnes.
- Australia; March Lentil Exports Drop Sharply Amid Weak India Demand & Gulf Shipping Risks: Australia exported 85,003 tonnes of lentils in March 2026, nearly half of February shipments, mainly due to the absence of major exports to India. Exports were also lower compared to 105,101 tonnes shipped in March 2025. Trade activity slowed further amid tensions in the Persian Gulf and disruption risks in the Strait of Hormuz, which may affect lentil shipments to UAE and nearby destinations from April onward. During October 2025–March 2026, Bangladesh remained the largest buyer of Australian lentils with imports of 182,610 tonnes, followed by Sri Lanka at 24,839 tonnes and Egypt at 33,451 tonnes.
